Land Forces To Be Named 'Canadian Army'

OTTAWA (CP)—The Defence Department will ask Parliament at the next session to change the name of the Canadian land forces to "the Canadian Army," Defence Minister Ralston announced today at a press conference.

"Militia" implied riflemen, he said, and with the change in armament it was felt that "army" was the more appropriate name.

To distinguish the full-time force from the part-time soldiery, Col. Ralston said the terms "active army" and "reserve army" would probably be used.

It had not yet been definitely decided to drop the use of the term "Canadian Active Service Force," used since the war to describe the troops serving overseas or available for overseas service. That question was now being studied and there might be certain advantages in retaining the use of the term although for practical purposes the C.A.S.F. would be the active branch of the army.

On Same Pattern As Britain's

Designation of Canadian military forces as the Canadian army will bring the terminology in this respect into conformity with that used in Great Britain, where they are known simply as "the army," Col. Ralston said he did not think the word "royal" was needed in relation to the army as it is used in the names of the Royal Canadian Navy and the Royal Canadian Air Force.

"I hope they are all royal, anyway," he said, "that is that they are all King's men."

As long as there have been Canadian military forces they have been known as militia, even in the days of the French regime, but the use of the terms "permanent active militia" and "non-permanent active militia" dates from 1863.

The former denoted the troops on full-time, year-round duty, professional soldiers. The latter denoted the troops who pursued civilian occupations, did training at intervals and were assembled as a force only occasionally.

No 5th Division In Immediate Future

While the nine infantry battalions for a fifth division have been mobilized, no immediate consideration is being given to the creation of a fifth division, he told the reporters.

The department, he added, always has in mind the possible necessity of mobilizing additional military formations to meet changing conditions.

An armored division is in contemplation, he said, confirming a previous intimation that when the armored brigade now being formed under Col. F. F. Worthington is completed consideration would be given to expanding it into a division.

The minister said Lord Strathcona's Horse of Winnipeg, a noted cavalry regiment which was about to lose its identity in the Canadian Cavalry Regiment, would be a motorcycle regiment in the armored brigade and would retain its name.

Army Co-operates With Industry

Col. Ralston also announced consideration is being given to the question of manpower in Canada with a view to adjusting the situation equitably as to the needs of the army and industry.

The subject was raised by industry and conferences are proceeding among the munitions and supply department, the labor department, the national labor board and the three armed services.

Col. Ralston was asked about a report that the 30-day training period now established for men called into the militia might be extended to one year.

Flexibility Always Needed

"We have no plans for that,"

said the minister, "but necessarily all our plans have to be flexible. We may want to give more intensive training to a smaller number of men."

In connection with manpower the government had to consider the position of industry, the supply of equipment and the needs of the armed forces for men, he said. All three services, the army, the navy and the air force were agreed the training program should be adjusted to the most effective use of available equipment.

With a possibility of more than 300,000 men being required for full-time service in the army, the navy and the air force, regard had to be had to the amount of war-age, the number of men needed continuously for replacements.

All the 39 militia training centres will be ready for recruits called up when they arrive on Wednesday.

Cadets' Rifles Given to Troops

Asked about a report of rifles being called in from secondary schools where they were being used for training cadets, the minister said that if they were good rifles they would be issued to the Canadian Active Service Force.

"You can be sure," he said, "we are not putting them in a trunk."

The 80,000 rifles recently obtained in the United States will be used for the nonpermanent active militia, he said.

Lambeth Palace Bombed, Archbishop Moves Out

LONDON (CP)—Lambeth Palace, residential seat of the Archbishop of Canterbury, was made uninhabitable by German bombs which fell some time ago, it was disclosed today.

The bombs forced the Archbishop and his staff to move to residence in Canterbury.

The entire central section of the Palace was struck on the river side by Nazi bombs.

The Archbishop disclosed the bombing at a diocesan conference. He voiced sympathy with persons who had lost their homes in air raids, and said he spoke "in some measure as a fellow sufferer," since he had been bombed out at Lambeth.

Remarking that each night some 200 persons of the "poorest folk of Lambeth" had taken shelter in an old crypt beneath the chapel of Lambeth Palace, the Primate said:

"I only wish Hitler and Goering could see the astonishing patience, good humor and even cheerfulness of those people to realize the futility of their aims."

He said the main object of the German raids was "to spread the spirit of fear among the people," but the people "are defeating them every day by a counter spirit of unity, resolution and fortitude."

ROOMS DESTROYED

The blast collapsed the central wall of the Palace and caused havoc inside. No one was reported injured.

The bombs fell at about the same time Westminster Abbey and the House of Lords were damaged.

They landed in the rear of the building, thus saving from destruction several valuable paintings of former archbishops and other irreplaceable historical objects. The several paintings were scratched badly, however, when the dust of the explosion was removed.

Included are portraits by Holbein, Van Dyck, Hogarth and Reynolds.

Lambeth Palace, London residence of Archbishops of Canterbury for seven centuries, stands opposite the Houses of Parliament on the south side of the Thames.

of his successors failed to add to it or alter it in some way.)

Ancient Westminster Abbey, where Britain has crowned her kings and queens and buried many of her illustrious dead, was also severely damaged by a large German bomb.

The raid occurred recently, but the authorities at first barred mention of its effect.

The missile, which blasted a hole 20 feet in diameter in the old palace yard, behind the statue of Richard the Lionhearted near the peers' entrance of the House of Lords, also damaged rulers was not damaged, but huge chunks of the outside masonry were blasted away.

The famous Poet's Corner of the Abbey is some distance from the chapel, being located in one corner of the south transept of the Abbey.

Splinters were sent flying southeast from the bomb crater clear up over Victoria Tower, 336 feet high and the tallest of the three towers of the Houses of Parliament; others were catapulted to the northwest and marked a statue of Oliver Cromwell in front of Westminster Hall, 70 feet from the crater.

The figure of Richard the Lion-Hearted was undamaged, but his sword was bent and the horse slightly damaged.

CASUALTY LIST NOW NUMBERS 70

The list follows:

Canada's Airplane Plant Staffs Increase to 10,000

TORONTO (CP)—Canada's average rate of production of aircraft now is 12 times greater than before the war began, James S. Duncan, deputy minister of air, said in an address today at a joint meeting of service clubs under the auspices of the Canadian Club of Toronto.

He said the output of the aircraft industry before hostilities was worth not more than $1,000,000 annually, and fewer than 1,000 men were employed.

"With the outbreak of war it became necessary to throw Canada's aircraft production into high gear," he said.

"Many millions of dollars have been spent on capital facilities, including both plant and tooling. Orders totaling more than $100,000,000 have been placed for aircraft, and many more are yet to come. Ten thousand men now find employment in our aircraft factories throughout the Dominion and within 12 months this number will be doubled.

"In the three months ended September 30 our factories turned out planes at an average monthly rate largely in excess of the yearly production of prewar days, and within a year this figure will be multiplied by three."

SATISFACTORY

Saying Canada's war effort in the air was proceeding at a pace "well beyond our most optimistic expectations," the deputy minis-

MRS. A. CAMPBELL CALLED TO REST

Mrs. Angus Campbell, for 50 years a prominent and highly respected figure in the business life of the city, died suddenly in St. Joseph's Hospital on Saturday evening after a brief illness. Funeral services will be conducted by Rev. J. L. W. McLean in St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church on Wednesday afternoon at 2:15, followed by interment at Ross Bay.

Mrs. Campbell was born in Scotland about 79 years ago, and came with her husband to Victoria from Montreal in 1888. Five years later they opened a women's wear store on Fort Street, but moved later to the premises at 1010 Government, where the business was carried on until 1937, the firm being one of the first and largest women's wear establishments in the west.

Mrs. Campbell was actively identified with the business as buyer of the ready-to-wear department, and for many years alternated with her husband in buying trips to the bigger fashion centres in Europe and in eastern Canada.

After his death in 1931 she carried on the business until 1937, when failing health caused her to retire into private life. For the last eight years she had been resident at the Empress Hotel.

Mrs. Campbell was a life-long Presbyterian and a generous friend of the Royal Jubilee and of these ships has been lost while under Canadian protection on this side of the Atlantic," Mr. Duncan said.

"Our country lacks no defiance nor valor in its young men," he said. "If we lack anything, I think it is rather in an adult realization of the task confronting us."

The deputy minister mentioned Canada's fighting airmen overseas "who, with 175 victorious air battles to their credit, are reenacting the glorious exploits of their older brothers in the last war."

CO-OPERATION

But he said another big job was being done by the R.C.A.F. in co-operation with the Royal Canadian Navy—a job of which Canadians had heard all too little: Since the war started, more than 3,000 ships with a total tonnage of more than 17,000,000 had left Canada for Britain. They were the "very lifeline of those beleaguered islands of Great Britain."

"I am proud to say that not one

London Has First Quiet Night in 30

LONDON (CP)—The Air Ministry and the Ministry of Home Security issued the following bulletin today:

"Shortly after dark yesterday a few bombs were dropped in the outskirts of the London area, causing little damage and no casualties."

"Just before dawn today single enemy aircraft crossed the south and east coasts at one or two points, but did not penetrate far inland and though a few bombs were dropped no casualties have so far been reported."

"There was no other enemy activity over this country during the night."

London's anti-aircraft guns roared into action just before dawn after a night of strange silence when a Channel gale and wind-driven rain shielded the city from bombings.

The pre-dawn alarm was brief and anti-aircraft guns fell silent. Flying conditions were reported extremely unfavorable on the 30th night since intensive air raids were started. A gale lashed heavy seas in the Strait of Dover.

Sunday's rain continued in a drizzle through the night and visibility at Dover was poor.

After dawn though the sun came out.

Fire Into Streets

Sunday daylight attacks brought a resumption of street-raiding by low-flying planes. Three streets in eastern London were splattered with machine gun bullets.

Four women and a child were reported killed at Folkestone by a dive bomber.

Some 20 districts around London and in southeastern England were attacked, many of the planes diving from cloudbanks which had hidden them from Royal Air Force fighter patrols and ground gun crews.

An undisclosed number of casualties was reported in raids on the East Midlands and East Anglia, and some houses were demolished in an unidentified town in Northamptonshire.

At least one raiding bomber was counted shot down despite weather conditions which the Air Ministry said "made interception by our fighters difficult."

German Claim

BERLIN (AP)—The German high command issued the following communique today:

"London and numerous other objectives in southern England effects. Numerous direct hits were repeatedly attacked on the night of October 6 and during the night of October 5 despite the worst weather. In London a large gas plant exploded, followed by a big fire. Furthermore, we succeeded in severely damaging a waterworks."

"Scattered planes raided several armament factories in southern England and destroyed boiler houses, assembly halls, finished goods and supplies. Heavy calibre bombs many times hit stations and tracks. Bomb hits on several airports, resulted in the collapse of hangars and numerous airplanes were destroyed on the ground by machine gun fire and bomb explosions."

"Raids on several army camps south of London showed great were observed on barracks and other shelters. Bomb explosions caused new big fires at Thameshaven and Port Victoria. Raids furthermore were directed against port facilities along the southern and southeastern English coast."

"There were no air fights yesterday because of weather conditions."

Big British Offensive Forecast

R.A.F. Smashes Nazi Bases, Sinks Ship

LONDON (CP)—Royal Air Force bombers attacked Nazi coastal objectives and shipping over an area stretching from Harlingen in the Netherlands to Boulogne in France in a series of daylight raids which began soon after dawn yesterday and lasted until late afternoon, the air ministry news service announced today.

Despite bad weather, R.A.F. bombers raided the "invasion ports" of Ostend, Calais and Boulogne, attacked the Diepholt airport in western Germany and bombed shipping in the Nazi-held Netherlands harbors of Harlingen, Stavoren, Enkhuizen, Dordrecht and Den Helder.

One pilot of a Hudson of the coastal command was cited particularly for great gallantry in an attack on two armed merchant ships off the Netherlands coast. Although his plane was hit and set afire, the communiqué said, the flier "pressed home his attack" and his plane "eventually turned over and plunged headlong into the sea."

"Weather conditions were consistently bad, with low clouds and heavy rainstorms restricting visibility," said an air ministry bulletin amplifying the communiqué.

Bombs Wreck Group of Barges

"One early morning raider approaching Calais under cover of the clouds attacked a concentration of barges lying in one of the main basins. Two heavy calibre bombs aimed from a low level exploded among a group of 50 barges. Another hit a jetty and a fourth struck a large warehouse."

"Almost immediately after the attack the bomber itself was engaged by a formation of 12 Messerschmitt 109 fighters. In the running fight which ensued, the British rear gunner shot one of the Messerschmitts down in flames and held off the rest of the formation until the bomber had gained cover in a cloud.

"Barges and shipping at Boulogne and Ostend were also attacked. One raider crossing over Holland into western Germany located and bombed the airfield at Diepholt, 30 miles southwest of Bremen, where two high explosive bombs were seen to burst on the tarmac (runway) immediately in front of a line of hangars."

Supply Ships At Wharf Hit

"Other bomber forces ranging over the Dutch coast bombed a number of supply ships lying alongside the quay at Harlingen and barges in the river Maas and attacked shipping in the Zuider Zee ports of Stavoren and Enkhuizen. At Stavoren, several heavy calibre bombs burst on the wharf side and at Enkhuizen hits were scored on the west quay and in the northern harbor. Here a number of small ships were hit and fires started."

"The supply ships in the Dutch harbor at Den Helder, terminus of the great North Holland Canal, were attacked in the afternoon. In the face of heavy fire from anti-aircraft batteries. Four bombs struck harbor works, causing a violent explosion and what one observer described as a 'cloud of red sparks.'"

"An 800-ton ship making towards the harbor also was bombed from a low level in a shallow dive attack. A direct hit was scored on the stern of the ship, which was left enveloped in a cloud of steam and smoke. When aircraft returned to the scene a few minutes later the vessel had disappeared."

All Expect Big Drive Soon

London, rested by its first respite from bombing in 30 nights, looked hopefully today to Great Britain's own counter-offensive—a "master plan" of air attacks intended to cripple Germany so British armies can drive the Nazis back into Germany.

Predictions that Britain will seize the offensive in land operations on the continent when—according to plan—the Royal Air Force have beaten down the Nazi air force coincided with the reports of widespread British night attacks during the week-end.

The huge Krupp munitions works at Essen, important industrial targets in Germany, and the Nazi-held ports along the Channel coast were bombed heavily.

Two tons of explosives were dumped on the Krupp works. Fires were seen after the bombing of the freight yards at Hamm and Osnabrück and the waterfront at Rotterdam, fliers said. German-used airfields were bombed at Schiphol, Texel, Olderbok and Bussum. Gelsenkirchen was bombed for an hour and a half, setting factory districts afire.

Forecasts of a great British offensive came from Lord Croft, Under-Secretary for War, and the London Daily Express, published by Lord Beaverbrook, Minister for Aircraft Production.

Operate to Crush Nazis' Air Strength

Lord Croft said Britain will attack when German air power and war production have been crushed.

The Daily Express predicted the next phase of the war would be "the hurling against Germany of the strength of the English-speaking world expressed in air power."

The newspaper declared 54,000 airmen for Britain already are in training in the Dominions, and said the Empire's air program aimed at an output of 50,000 pilots a year from the British Commonwealth Air Training Plan in Canada.

The Air Ministry said R.A.F. blows at Germany, following a "master plan," already have curtailed German warplane production, seriously hampered communications, and hit at plants producing 50 per cent of Germany's annual production of 2,500,000 tons of oil.

(A German high command to the government's action, called it an "act to clarify Italian policy and relations with the United States."

Gayda said the American writer attempted to create a "new intrigue" by speaking without proof of an Italian plan to bring about the defeat of President Roosevelt.

"The plan does not exist, cannot exist," Gayda said. Matthews said the reason for his expulsion was "because Roosevelt made a political issue of my story and the Axis feels it must answer."

German Troops In Rumania

BERLIN (AP)—Nazi sources said today that Germany has sent armed contingents into Rumania as a "precautionary" measure in accordance, it is claimed, with the "guarantee" given Rumania at the conclusion of the Vienna agreement August 30 which returned part of Transylvania to Hungary.

"We haven't forgotten British designs on Baku and other oil points," these sources said in hinting that military protection of oil fields is the prime motive in sending troops into Rumania.

(Baku, however, is in the Soviet Caucasus, on the Caspian Sea and hundreds of miles to the east of Rumania.)

These sources took the position that present movements of troops correspond with an understanding reached some time ago and are not provoked by any special act of the movement.

They refused to state the size of the German contingents, but said that a German general (whose position might make him commander of any force from a brigade to a field army) is in Rumania. Correspondents were not permitted to identify the officer.

Germany 'Invades' Rumania

WHEN WE ATTEMPT TO SPECULATE on what Rumania may do next, or what she may passively concede, we invariably succumb to the temptation to touch wood. But it ought to be reasonable to suggest that Germany's armed "invasion" of what is left of ex-King Carol's country would seem to be of interest to Moscow. Nazi authorities in Berlin, of course, hasten to assure a shock-proof world that the manoeuvre is merely a "precautionary" measure—all in accordance with the "guarantee" given Rumania when the pact of Vienna transferred a large slice of Transylvania to Hungary.

It will be recalled that Rumanian dictator General Ion Antonescu boasted of the fact that the axis powers had promised him to defend his country's borders against any attempted invasion. Relations between Rumania and Russia at that time were somewhat strained, Moscow protesting that no satisfactory explanation had been given of certain "border incidents" in which the Soviet charged its neighbor with provocation; but since the conclusion of the pact of Vienna a stricter censorship has drawn a veil over subsequent—if any—exchanges between Bucharest and the Russian capital. What has transpired in the meantime is not clear.

Coincidental with this movement of German armed forces into former King Carol's realm, however, was Antonescu's appearance before a huge throng of the regimented populace clad in the Iron Guard's green shirt. Here was his formal notice of complete adherence to the country's political counterpart of the Nazi creed as slavishly swallowed by nearly 90,000,000 Germans. Whether this ostentatious display of totalitarian co-operation or allegiance was intended to prove that Hitler had made one promise he could keep, or whether it was the beginning of a Nazi program of absorption which might soon be followed by the marching of German troops to the shores of the Black Sea, only the progress of events will reveal. At any rate, these developments have been followed by the intimation that Germany is planning to "assist" Rumania in a road-building plan, and is considering the establishment of a naval and air base on the Black Sea.

It is at this point of a discussion of the latest Nazi move at which one is tempted to speculate on the attitude of Russia toward it. Is there in the offing a veiled threat to the Soviet's Black Sea sphere of influence, and, with it, a challenge to the Moscow government to announce its stand toward the revamped axis plan of world division—after the "totalitarian victory"? Is it the beginning of a test of Russian-Turkish collaboration, an attempt to find a way of persuading the Ankara government to redefine its new relations with Great Britain in the light of France's eclipse? Mussolini's journalistic mouthpiece, Virginio Gayda, on Saturday called the Turks the "servile satellites" of the British—and the "American columns which stand beside them." And what effect is this march of Nazi troops expected to have on Greece, Yugoslavia, and Bulgaria—none hostile to the Soviet?

While Russia still remains the enigma, then, it is to be noted that both the British and the United States governments—neither seriously concerned now with certain recent incidents in the Soviet's behavior—are looking to their fences on the Moscow diplomatic front. Japan's truculent conduct since the latest axis pronouncement is an excellent argument for British and American ambassadors to use at the Russian capital. Germany's new step on the "Drang nach Osten" march surely is not particularly pleasant for Stalin and Molotov to contemplate at this juncture.

Hitting Them Hard

BERLIN'S REGIMENTED NEWSPAPERS are falling miserably to convince much of the outside world that the Royal Air Force's visits to the Nazi capital are merely attempts to terrorize the civilian population. The Berliner Nachrichten calls them petty revenge by the "order of Churchill" because the "war plans of plutocracy" have failed and Britain has become a theatre of war. Going its contemporary one better, however, the Borsen Zeitung—once an influential financial daily—tells its readers that R.A.F. pilots "do not wish to bomb military objectives, but merely want to intimidate the German population."

Anybody who knows anything about the German capital and its environs, of course, can name dozens of military objectives which the Nazi high command is doing its utmost to protect from the accurate aim of British bombers, for Berlin still is the biggest arms production centre in the Reich—comparable only with the Ruhr region. Even in peacetime its metallurgical production alone found work for more than 300,000 men; it can be taken for granted that the wartime payroll vastly exceeds this number. And all over the capital and its immediate neighborhood are scattered plants of the Allgemeine Elektrizitäts Gesellschaft—known familiarly as the A.E.G. The accumulator factory in Charlottenburg, in the east, is surrounded by a middle-class residential quarter. In the heart of the densely-populated central districts are other plants, including those in the Braunstrasse, in the northwest, and Moabit, in the southwest. The huge Siemens works forms a town of its own—Sietmestadt, lying between Charlottenburg and Spandau. Spandau, also part of Greater Berlin, is the Reich's old state arsenal town. It includes even a gun foundry and plants for the manufacture of almost all other arms. Moreover, it is closely linked with the capital's second big military air base, Staaken.

Nobody will try to refute the claim of the Herr Doktor Goebbels when he says that Berlin's biggest arms factories are in the outer districts; but he always omits to say that they are nearly all surrounded by residential areas. We may presume that the Nazi hierarchy did not isolate such establishments because it had faith in the invincibility of its war machine. The Bergmann Elektrotechnik works, for example, is in Rosenthal (north), the Berlin-Kayserliche Feuerwerks Works in Wittenau (north) and the famous old locomotive factory Borsig in Tegel. There is the Deutsche Telefon Works in Schöneberg (southwest), the Daimler Works in Marienfelde (south) and a belt of big factories in Tempelhof lining the southern and eastern borders of the famous airport.

Raids on the various establishments must have caused civilian deaths and damage to nonmilitary property; it is ridiculous to suppose that military targets can be attacked without hitting the area around. But it should be borne in mind that Berlin's actual importance in German economic life is much less than that of London in British life. Not more than 5 per cent of Germany's own population live in the capital; London shelters more than 20 per cent. What is annoying Hitler and his cohorts more than anything else, of course, is the large amount of damage done to war factories by the R.A.F. They do not care a rap for civilian loss of life only as it may affect the "machine."

Mrs. Angus Campbell

FOR MORE THAN 30 YEARS MRS.

Angus Campbell enriched the life of this community with a fine conception of citizenship which might well be emulated by all who have Victoria's welfare at heart. With her late husband, she built up a business on a foundation of such sterling integrity that its name was a household word, synonymous with the highest ethics, for it won the loyalty and admiration not only of a wide clientele but also of commercial leaders throughout Canada. In private life the same high principles which actuated her long and active business career found expression in a broad and generous sympathy to any cause affecting the welfare of Victoria. No appeal, particularly for the sick and suffering, was ever made to her in vain—and her benefactions were legion. Although she has gone to her last rest, her memory will long remain green in the hearts of all those who were privileged to know her.

$57 a Month

FEDERAL CIVIL SERVANTS IN ESQUIMALT at their recent meeting decided to protest to Ottawa about the salary scale which results in 60 persons, or 52 per cent of the number of Dominion civil servants in the district, receiving only $57 a month. The press report says it was pointed out at the meeting that "it was becoming more difficult on such a salary to make ends meet, especially with the recent increase in rents."

This $57 a month, it is revealed, is not the scale for messenger boys, as an outsider might assume, but is the pay rate for men who have passed their civil service examinations. Many of these men are married and are trying to support families—on $57 a month! A number are middle-aged. All occupy posts of responsibility; some, key posts in charge of records, upon the accuracy of which depends the smooth functioning of government departments.

It is shocking to learn of such a pay-scale in Canada. Federal departments should be able to pay their employees at least a living wage. The public service is one of the last places where one would suspect anything in the nature of sweated labor. Surely our public men cannot rest easily while such conditions obtain.

Another explanation of things is that crowds never get wildly enthusiastic about a man who is merely wise and reasonable.

PROTECTION FOR PACIFIC COAST

From B.C. Financial News
Japan's joining of the Axis powers in a treaty which, while not immediately threatening, nevertheless aligns Japan with the foes of Canada, makes the British Columbia coast justifiably uneasy about the future.

Japan is a sea power. She owns one of the four major navies of the world, and in that navy are three airplane carriers. She is adding two more which should shortly be in commission.

It is out of the question that, with the United States Navy and the British China Fleet in existence, Japan could send a great enough armada across the Pacific to undertake an invasion of western Canada.

But if the new treaty with the Axis powers were to bring Japan into the war—and that could happen if the United States actively joined Britain—then Japan might conceivably plan and execute hit-and-run raids on Pacific coast cities of Canada to cripple the Canadian war effort.

We should be blind in Canada not to recognize such a possibility in view of Japan's move toward co-operation with Germany and Italy.

It should be possible for certain key points in Canada to receive more defensive material than has been available in the past.

Parallel Thoughts

So that a man shall say, Verily, there is a reward for the righteous: verily he is a God that judgeth in the earth.—Psalm 111.

Never, with the Bible in our hands, can we deny rights to another, which, under the same circumstances, we would claim for ourselves.—G. Spring.

J. B. Priestley

TO A FINISH

WE ARE FIGHTING for our existence. I doubt if this is widely understood even yet. Many people of all classes still seem to imagine that this is a conflict in which they personally have no interest and little or nothing at stake. They think this is some dispute between foreign offices that might be patched up round a conference table. It is nothing of the kind, of course, but a fight to a finish between two opposed ways of life.

A Nazi victory would give those people who think they have little or nothing at stake in this conflict a series of most unpleasant shocks. Working folk would find themselves reduced to the condition of serfs. The middle classes would find themselves impoverished and the victims of a totalitarian police state. Many intellectuals would instantly lose their liberty and possibly their lives. Justice, real culture, education, the traditions of a liberty-loving people, all would wither away. This island, from which great numbers of people would be forcibly evacuated, would cease to play a notable part in the world's affairs. The real Britain would be only a memory.

'THE CHOSEN PEOPLE'

AND IT IS NECESSARY now to detach ourselves from the immediate conflict and to broaden our view. Let us consider first what Nazism is. The slightest examination shows it to be a most bewildering mixture. Thus, in Germany, it is fervently nationalistic on not unfamiliar lines. The Germans are the superior race, the master folk, who are now emerging in their true greatness to dominate Europe and, indeed, the world. They are the chosen people of some mysterious pitiless deity, who has selected Adolf Hitler to be his prophet. Outside the Reich proper, Nazi propaganda is conducted on very different lines. Nazism offers itself as a revolutionary doctrine, and contrasts its own dynamic qualities and its realism and ruthless efficiency with the "decadent" and "effete" muddling of what it calls the "pluto-democracies." Its people are "young and virile," and they demand to take control of the world's affairs from the trembling, feeble hands of the foolish old men of the democracies.

Clearly we are fighting the Nazi and Fascist leaders and their immediate followers simply because these are ruthless and power-crazed men whose relation to any real international order is merely that of Al Capone and his gang to the municipal life of Chicago. We must also fight the German and Italian people until the moment when, by some means or other, we can make it plain to them that we have something better to offer than totalitarianism, and not only something that we know to be better but that they will recognize to be better. We must show ourselves willing to create a kind of life that does really give them what Nazism and Fascism only pretend to give them. It must be made plain that the substance is now offered in place of the shadow.

This means, to my mind, that we can instantly dismiss any notion of a conventional British Tory government successfully enlisting the sympathies of these peoples. Or, for that matter, of any people whose opinions and actions are of any real importance in this world. All but the extremely stupid know that it is impossible to patch up the old engine again.

MENTAL SHIFT NECESSARY

AND HERE IS the possible cornerstone of a new world order, which can offer the masses of the totalitarian states that which they had despaired of ever finding. We must make a deliberate mental shift from that sense of property, which is the mark of the Tory mind, to a sense of community, regarding this country not as an aggregate of things to be owned but as the home of a living society. We must make a similar mental shift from the desire for power, which is the mark of frustrated or mal-adjusted minds, to the infinitely more rewarding desire for creation.

I believe that most younger people are already accepting these new values, for the circumstance that we are united to defend ourselves against the most destructive system to modern man has done more than 50 years of warning and preaching.

Therefore, I say, the hour is glorious for us. We have a chance not of merely fighting to save our skins, but of fighting to save the wide world and all the races of mankind.

ENGLAND SHALL STAND

(Written just after hearing Alfred Duff Cooper speak.)

They shall not set one foot on British soil;
The feet of Germany shall never stain
This sacred ground. No skulking air-borne
Hun
Drifting to earth in England shall remain.
Nor breathe her air nor touch her sacred throne
In this small island that we call our own.

From every hill a watchman keeps his guard;
On every crest and height a soldier stands,
Behind her ancient walls the English wait,
Guarding, with every drop of blood, her lands.
No cursed invader of the earth or sea
Shall mar the one-ness of our unity.

As long as English seas break on her shores,
And the grey fog drifts in at evenfall,
As long as God keeps guard above the night,
And in the twilight little children call,
There is no power to break her heart or hand.
As long as earth goes on—England shall stand.

U.S. ELECTION

DURING THE PAST couple of days I have heard plenty of bear-hunters' talk. On the long ride across northern British Columbia, and waiting for the fast train at Jasper, the air was full of pungent language loaned by robust men from the midwest states who had traveled thousands of miles to shoot at bears. One fellow not only shot at them, but actually hit and killed an 84-inch monster.

This party was interesting to me because of its comments on the presidential election. Three out of four were vehement supporters of Wendell Willkie—which seemed to me a fair representation among the class of people who have money enough to spend several hundreds of dollars apiece and time enough to travel several thousands of miles to shoot at grizzlies.

But all of them were agreed that Willkie seemed to be fading as the campaign proceeded. I kept carefully quiet but smiled to myself as that confirmed my own guess. It may be just my imagination; and many things about United States politics are deceptive to any outsider. But the Republican nominee seems to have lost ground steadily since he began to campaign.

GOOD NEIGHBOR

WHEN I WAS saying good-bye to the chief spokesman for Willkie, and the right of the American businessman to bring back "good times," he remarked: "Well, I sure am glad that the Canadians aren't voting in this election. In all the time I have been up here I haven't met anybody who wasn't strong for Roosevelt."

That seems true. The overwhelming majority of Canadians do think that Roosevelt is a good neighbor. The gibe and wisecrack, "he's the best president Canada ever had," is by-and-large true. But, as Dorothy Thompson pointed out, after her return from Europe, the defeat of Roosevelt would be construed everywhere outside the United States as a setback for the cause of democracy, and an encouragement to the dictators.

A MARKET FOR GREY FISH?

From West Coast Advocate
A brief dispatch from Ottawa reported the other day Canada is developing a cod liver oil production program. The war has disrupted normal foreign sources of cod liver oil supply and as a result this country must rely on its own fish-oil refineries. Two new plants for refining have been established and several others are being equipped in eastern Canada. This looks like news which might directly react to the benefit of west coast fishermen. Cod liver oil is only one kind of fish oil. Others can be treated similarly and used with as good and perhaps better health results.

We recall a talk of a year or so ago with the head of a laboratory on the mainland. He said experiments proved oil from fish caught on the west coast could be employed in health foods just as cod liver oil is popularly used today. Oil from grey fish liver, he said, contains essential health vitamins. These grey fish, more popularly known as dog fish are a nuisance to fishermen, but there's no insurmountable difficulty we are aware of to prevent them being incorporated in the wealth of this province.

RESPECTABLE NOW

From Winnipeg Tribune
The British people are showing that they certainly have "lots of guts," Gracie Fields told Canadian listeners recently in commenting on the newest Nazi sky terrors.

The word "guts" was not always permissible on the air or in conversation. There was a half-hearted attempt some years ago to convey the idea through humor by calling it "intestinal fortitude." In Victorian days, when a popular prophet had to be careful of his speech, Carlyle was in a quandary when he wanted to write of the guts of the British troops at the battle of Dettingen. He disguised this fighting quality under the phrase, "the requisite unconscious subterfuge of tactful inexpugnability."

But today there is only one word for it.

WAKE UP YOUR LIVER BILE—

And You'll Jump Out of Bed to the Morning Star's to Go

The liver should give out two quarts of bile into your bowels daily. If it fails to do this, your bowels become sluggish. It is just down to the liver, the bile, and the bowels. The liver produces bile, the bile goes into the bowels, and the bowels move the bile out. If the liver fails to produce bile, the bowels become sluggish, and the bile stays in the bowels. This causes constipation, and the bile becomes poisonous. The liver should produce bile, the bile should go into the bowels, and the bowels should move the bile out. ## OBJECTIONABLE PRACTICE

To the Editor:—A statement appeared recently to the effect that the Medical Officer of Health had received many complaints regarding the dangerous habit of spitting on the sidewalks and that he regretted no legislation existed to stamp out the practice.

Reforms sometimes take place and laws are enacted through the pressure of public opinion, and this letter is written because I feel that unless objections to promiscuous expectoration are constantly and forcibly voiced in the press no reform is probable. The practice is not only extremely objectionable, it is a menace to public health, and in wartime especially the well-being of the community is of great importance.

I hope other letters will follow mine, that you will be good enough to publish them, because promiscuous expectoration is an evil that could be stamped out if public opinion were sufficiently articulated in its condemnation of the practice.

I wish to thank Dr. Richard Felton, Medical Officer of Health, for drawing attention in the press to the complaints he has received regarding this matter.

OLD COUNTRY INNS

To the Editor:—With reference to the letter on Old Country Inns from G. T. White, a great number of inns are duplicated in different parts of England. For instance, Liverpool, The Loggerheads, Dirty Stocking, Pig and Whistle, Legs of Man, The American Bar, The Star, Grand Central, Adelphi, Old Musty, The Star and Garter, The Seven Stars, at Manchester; Nottingham, The Royal Aquilana, Bird Cage Vaults, and on to that famous village of Gotham, The Half Moon, The Cuckoo Bush.

Here is the story: A nomad king was traveling with his men from Nottingham Castle to Belvoir Castle, a distance of eight miles, when they arrived in Gotham. They heard a noise on top of a hill, surrounded it and sent the men up. A cuckoo flew out of a bush. Hence the name. A sign hangs out with a bush painted and a cuckoo flying out of it.

GIVING SOLDIERS A LIFT

To the Editor:—Many car owners who would gladly give a ride to men in uniform are deterred from doing so from fear that in the event of accident they may be liable for damages for injuries incurred.

We have therefore investigated the matter, and find that in 1938 a new act of Parliament was passed which does away with all fear of liability, which the following digest of Section 74-B shows:

"No action shall lie against either the owner or driver of a motor vehicle—for any injury, loss or damage sustained by such person or for the death of such person by reason of the operation of that motor vehicle by the driver thereof while such person is a passenger in or is entering or alighting from that motor vehicle."

"Exceptions: (1) Where transportation is for hire or gain; (2) Where transportation is a normal incident of the ordinary business of the driver."

Car owners will no doubt bear in mind that service men in many instances left behind good cars of their own in other parts of Canada to prepare to defend Canada and the Empire.

Therefore, the good will and courtesy of the car owner here causes him or her to wish to save the men in uniform from having to tramp hot and dusty roads in summer and perhaps snowy and slushy roads in winter. To facilitate this, one of our staff has prepared, free of cost to the Red Cross, light blue windscreen stickers for free distribution at this store, reading:

All who wish them are invited to call. Other stores, garages, etc., can arrange to have these in quantity at cost price.

Held for Keeping Body of Dead Woman

KEY WEST, Fla. (AP)—A 70-year-old man was in custody here today as a result of officers finding in his home the body of a young woman of whom he had become enamoured before she died seven years ago.

Deputy Sheriff Bernard Wallie and Ray Elwood said the body was in a bedroom of the isolated home of the man, booked as Karl Tanzier van Costel.

Van Costel was charged with removing a body from a grave without permission.

The body, wrapped in a silk robe, was found on one of the two twin beds in the room. On the wrists were gold bracelets and in the hair was an artificial rose.

The body was removed to an undertaking establishment, where attendants said it was astonishingly well preserved with the aid of wax.

OBSCENE LITERATURE

To the Editor:—I enclose an editorial from the Cowichan Leader which I think should interest many of your readers:

"New York's Mayor, F. H. LaGuardia, recently declared war to the finish on printed filth and hauled 40 magazine publishers into his office to tell them so. He listed 42 nationally circulated magazines as objectionable and 34 of them as obscene."

"In their presence he ordered in characteristic fashion the assignment of motorcycle policemen to trail delivery trucks of distributors suspected of coercing news dealers. If other means failed, he said he would treat the publications as sewage, and he ordered the commissioner of sanitation to be prepared to send rubbish trucks around the city to pick up filthy printed matter."

"On the mayor's list are six publications with over 100,000 circulation: True Story, True Confessions, Pic, Secrets, Peek, and Film Fun. Others are: Breezy Stories, Carnival Show, Certified Detective Cases, Crime Confessions, Crime Detective, College Life, Daring Detective, Detective Tales, Girls in the News, Grin, The Harlem Tattler, Headquarters Detective, Horror Stories, Laff, Love Novel of the Month, Movie Fun, Mystery Detective, The Police Gazette, Romantic Love, Personal Romance, Phantom Detective, Popular Detective, Popular Psychology Guide, Private Detective, Real Detective, Real Screen Fun, Silk Stocking, Snap, Stocking Parade, Strange Detective Mysteries, Ten-Story Detective, Thrilling Detective, True Detective, True Experiences, True Romances and True Love and Romance."

"This decision is the result of a most painstaking study and survey with Justice Stephen S. Jackson of the Children's Court, the mayor told these publishers: Not until after minute and detailed study showing the effects of this reading upon youth did I take action."

"I wish some of you would spend some time in our children's courts and see the sorrow inflicted upon parents—hard-working, decent folk—by their children getting into the most unfortunate and disgraceful kind of trouble, the mayor told the group. "If you know anything about children, if you have families, I can't understand how you can conceive of anything so repulsive."

Mayor LaGuardia will accomplish something of inestimable value to the people of North America if he is able to eliminate objectionable publications at their source.

POPE ASKS GIRLS TO STAY MODEST

VATICAN CITY (AP)—Pope Pius XII urged 14,000 Italian girls gathered in a Vatican City courtyard yesterday to fight "immodesty" of present day fashion, likening young women who "risk their chastity by bowing down to the 'tyranny of style' to insane persons and unwittingly throw themselves into fires and rivers."

He urged them to keep their faces free of "artificialities," and quoting from first Corinthians, chapter 11, verses 13 and 15, he said hair was given to women for a veil.

The Pontiff delivered his 20-minute discourse from the portable throne in Saint Peter's courtyard on the occasion of the 25th anniversary of the founding of the apostolic action of Italian Catholic Action. Those who heard him were representatives of Italian girls' Catholic Action organizations.

"Modesty and modesty should go together," said the Pontiff. "But modesty is no longer stylish."

Urging the young women to avoid "ambitious vanity," he said their Catholic Action leaders should show them how to be "modern, cultivated, sporting, graceful, natural and distinguished without giving way to all the vulgarities of worldly style."

The discourse touched on the war only briefly when the Pope characterized the present hour as one of devastation and pointed his hearers toward a task of Christian reconstruction to be undertaken at the end of the conflict.

Animals' Day Tea Drew Many Guests

The World Day for Animals tea drew a large number of animal lovers to the Sons of England Hall on Saturday afternoon. Tea was served from small tables decked with dahlias, goldenrod and Michaelmas daisies. Miss D. Kitto was in charge of the tea arrangements, and Miss O. L. Bess, of Mount Toimie School, brought a bevy of young servers, D. Gill, C. Goral, M. Rousay, E. Robb, L. Antrobus, P. McDonald, M. Brown, S. Bryant, A. Dovey, R. Raine and J. Duncan.

A musical program included pianoforte solos by Miss Doreen Briggs and vocal numbers by David Oldham, baritone, which were much enjoyed.

The superlatives and home cooking stall was in charge of Mrs. H. Landman and Mrs. J. Iversen, and the kitchen stall was in charge of Mrs. H. Biggin, Mrs. Saxton-White and Mrs. E. Brooker.

Mr. G. B. Kitto was chairman and touched upon the object of the World Day for Animals. The societies in England, to which the local organization was sending the proceeds, worked in conjunction with the Home Office of the British government and the Ministry of Agriculture. So important was the work considered in England that the Gold and Silver-Smiths' Company was receiving donations of old gold and silver, which was being turned into funds to assist the work for animals. Arrangements had been made to care for dogs and other pets of men on active service, or which had been deserted by their evacuated owners, and also to protect stock from the effect of air raids.

New oven-to-table cooking ware takes on beauty as well as utility. One of the most attractive sets in this type of pottery is finished in a soft shade of blue decorated with a white blossom design in carved cameo effect. Noteworthy, too, because it is said that its fine color is resistant to chemicals in ordinary washing materials, fruit or vinegar acids, as well as oven or ice-box temperatures.

TACOMA, Wash.—Mrs. Elizabeth Eley, 74, rebuffed the judge's plea that "You've lived with this man more than half a century and ought to be able to stick it out." She won a divorce, changing 31-year-old L. W. Eley with mental cruelty. They were married 38 years.

Weddings

SULLY-BENNET
Of wide interest throughout the province was the wedding quietly solemnized Friday evening before family members of the principals at the home of the bride's mother when Frances Mary, daughter of Mrs. Bennett of Vancouver and the late F. A. Bennett of Victoria, became the bride of Mr. Kenneth Sully, son of Mrs. Sully and the late William Sully of this city.

There were no attendants at the ceremony solemnized by Rev. Dr. J. R. Wilson and for which the bride wore a traveling tulle of carbon-blue wool.

STOKES-MAY
A pretty wedding drew a large congregation to St. Mary's Church, Oak Bay, on Saturday evening when Jean Nancy, daughter of the late Mr. R. Searns May and Mrs. R. Searns May, Victoria, and Mr. John Frederick Stokes, son of Mr. and Mrs. A. W. Stokes, 336 Arnold Avenue, were united in marriage by Ven. Archdeacon A. E. de L. Nupna.

Autumn flowers, arranged by girl friends of the bride, decorated the chancel and choir stalls. The wedding music was played by Mr. F. T. C. Wickett, and as the bride entered the church the congregation sang "The Voice That Breathed O'er Eden."

Given in marriage by Mr. F. Harper, an old family friend, the bride was lovely in her wedding gown of white chiffon velvet with a train, and a coat of buttons covered with a point over the back of the hand. Her only ornament was a double string of pearls, and her shawl, full net veil was arranged on a diadem head-dress of net trimmed with mother-of-pearl leaves and orange blossoms. She carried a prayer book, showered with stephanotis and Ophelia roses.

Miss Gwen Williams was bridesmaid in a floor-length gown of rose chiffon velvet with long sleeves and matching turban. She carried a Colonial bouquet. The best man was Mr. Chris Miller, and the ushers were Mr. R. Sinclair and Mr. F. Boughie.

A reception was held at the Dominion Hotel, the bride's mother receiving in a floor-length black crepe dress, hand sewn with sequins, and small black velvet hat trimmed with sequin birds and veil, assisted by the bridegroom's mother, wearing a Queen Elizabeth blue sheer crepe floor-length dress with long sleeves and a black velvet picture hat. They both wore corsage bouquets of Ophelia roses.

Music was played during the reception by Miss G. Harper, pianist; Mr. Chris Miller, violinist, and Mr. Botten, cellist. Mr. H. Morrison sang "Singing Hills" and "Because," accompanied at the piano by his mother.

Refreshments were served from a table centred with a two-tier square wedding cake, trimmed with yellow roses and surrounded by a silver vase of Talisman roses.

For the honeymoon trip motor-ing on the mainline, the bride wore a wine velvet dress, with matching turban and accessories, a short grey caracul fur coat and a corsage bouquet of Ophelia roses.

Upon their return, Mr. and Mrs. Stokes will make their home in Victoria.

SPENCE-SAUNDERS
The marriage of Dorothy Hylda, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. E. Saunders, 1456 Edgeware Road, to Mr. Russell Andrew Spence, Victoria, son of Mr. and Mrs. W. T. Spence, Glasview, N.B., was solemnized by Rev. W. M. Byres of Vancouver in the vestry of First United Church on Saturday evening at 7.30.

The bride, who was given in marriage by her father, wore a solid blue silk afternoon dress, an off-the-face hat of the same shade and navy blue accessories. Her corsage bouquet was composed of gardenias and pink rosebuds. Mrs. Howard Williams, sister of the bride, was matron of honor, wearing a plum-colored afternoon dress with matching accessories and a corsage bouquet of carnations and fern.

A reception was held later at the home of the bride's parents, where the bridal couple stood in front of the fireplace, which was banked with Michaelmas daisies and Baby Royal dahlias. The refreshment table was covered with a lace cloth and in the centre stood the two-tier wedding cake, with pink candles in silver holders at each end.

The bride and groom left to spend their honeymoon in Vancouver, Mrs. Spence travelling in a navy blue tailored velvet suit with matching tweed coat and accessories. On their return they will make their home on Hillside Avenue.

Barbara Munro, "Great Brave," for Ocean Park; Miss Joan Campbell, of First United group, sang "We Would Be Building."

HAGYARD-BROTHERS
A wedding of interest in Vancouver and Victoria took place in Christ Church Cathedral on Saturday evening at 8, when Squadron Leader the Rev. S. J. Wickens united in marriage Dorothy Naomi Johnston Brothers, daughter of Mrs. A. G. Brothers, 1714 Hampshire Road, Oak Bay, and Corpl. Charles Foster Hagyard, R.C.A.F., Vancouver, son of Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Hagyard, 618 Dallas Road. Mr. Stanley Bulley, cathedral organist, played the wedding music.

The bride was given in marriage by her brother, Mr. Henry Brothers, and wore a graceful gown of white satin, made with long sleeves, close-fitting bodice and a full skirt ending in a long train. Her long net veil fell from a coronet of pearls and orange blossoms to the end of her train. Her bouquet was composed of pink and white carnations and fern. M. J. W. Milliken, sister of the bride, was matron of honor, wearing a floor-length gown of pale blue sheer and a Juliet cap of blue flowers. She carried a bouquet of pink carnations and blue scabious. Mr. W. Milliken was best man.

A reception was held in Terry's rose room, where about 120 guests were welcomed by Mrs. Brothers in a long navy blue flowered chiffon gown with a blue hat and corsage bouquet of yellow chrysanthemums, and by Mrs. Hagyard, mother of the groom, wearing a royal blue flowered silk crepe dress, blue hat and a corsage bouquet of yellow chrysanthemums. The room was beautifully decorated with autumn flowers and a two-tier cake held the place of honor on the table.

Corpl. and Mrs. Hagyard, who will make their home in Vancouver, left to spend their honeymoon on the mainland, the bride traveling in a black fur coat, the gift of the groom; black accessories and blue woolen dress.

Out-of-town guests at the wedding included: Mrs. J. C. Kingsbury, Ganges; Mrs. Hampton, Vancouver; and Miss Hamilton, Fulford Harbor.

McGREGOR-MOYER
On Saturday evening Rev. Thos. Menzies officiated at a simple ceremony at the home of the bride's cousins, Mr. and Mrs. Ivan E. Moyer of Regina, became the bride of Hugh McGregor, R.C.N.V.R., Esquimalt, youngest son of Duncan McGregor and the late Mrs. McGregor of Regina. The groom was swimming champion of Regina for seven years.

The bride entered the living-room on the arm of her uncle, Mr. C. H. Bradshaw, to the strains of the Wedding March, played on the violin and piano by Cora and Mona Mayhew. The bride and groom stood under a white and silver arch amid a profusion of chrysanthemums and gladioli in autumn shades.

The bride wore a tailored ensemble of japonica wool crepe with beige doekin accessories and a corsage of gardenias and talisman roses. Mrs. Thomas H. Munn of Wells, B.C., sister of the bridegroom, was matron of honor and wore a hunter's green suit with matching accessories and a corsage of pink carnations. The groom was in naval uniform and his brother, Eric McGregor of Wells, B.C., was best man. Mrs. Mayhew received the guests in a navy blue crepe dress with white accessories with a corsage of red carnations.

The wedding cake, a gift of an aunt of the groom, occupied the place of honor on the buffet table, surrounded by a white and silver wedding bell, and flanked by white asters in a cut glass bowl, with matching candlesticks. ## London Designers Still Lead in Fashions

By AMY PORTER

Associated Press Staff Writer NEW YORK (CP)—European fashions have a hard time getting recognition these days, with everyone in the United States shouting about home-talent designers. Nevertheless, the dressmakers of London and Paris are still doing business at their old stands—the Londoners running up seams between quick dashes to bomb shelters. Those few samples of their products that have reached America indicate the Europeans haven't lost their fine talent for clothes creation.

The 18 British designs presented by the International Wool Secretariat in New York won an ovation from a society audience.

The evening wear was lavishly decorated with beads and sequins. Most of the suits, were shown with blouses of fine wool—a trend that is already under way here.

The British consul-general, Godfrey Haggard, said the show was “permissible” propaganda to prove we are still doing business during alterations.

Reports from France state that the “haute couture,” or what is left of it in Paris, is still issuing style edicts. Lavin has lengthened skirts on all daytime dresses to reach well below the knee. But, with no American buyers on hand to see the new Lanvin silhouette, it's unlikely that we in this country will start letting out hems to conform.

Certain French houses now making their headquarters in London aim to please American trade. Molyneux's new London collection conforms to silhouettes already established here, depending for news interest on “sensational use of detail in cut.”

Two important members of the French couture, Schiaparelli and Mainbocher, are doing business in the United States.

Schiaparelli is touring the country with a small collection of her American-made originals, and Mainbocher has announced his plan to open a New York establishment.

It seems probable that another year will see the United States firmly launched upon her own independent course in fashion.

Pre-storage Altering. Growing girls' dresses that will have to be lengthened before being worn next summer are best let down, or rather the hems ripped out, before pre-storage washing. The folds or creases of this season's hems will be easier to eliminate next spring if the hems are ripped out before final washing and packing away.

Yellow is the color of mourning in China, and for that reason no yellow automobiles are shipped there.

MUSICAL ARTS HAS FINE PROGRAMS

The 1940-41 season of the Musical Art Society will break all previous records in attractive programs, and many new members are coming in to enjoy the season's work. This will include concerts by Gertrude Huntly Green, pianist; Mary Bucklin Hammond, cellist; Pierre Timp, baritone; the Elizabethan Singers, Maguinna Daniels, pianist, and a group of the younger musicians, including Peggy Walton, soprano; John Pepper, violinist, and a young pianist from Duncan, Marie Thiesen.

The arrangements for the April concert have not been completed, but it will be on a par with those announced.

The first concert of the season will be given on Wednesday night at the Empress Hotel at 8.30, by Randolph Hokanson, who has appeared in Victoria several times. Tickets may be obtained at Fletcher Bros.

At New York's Biggest Style Show

Champagne supper followed Eaks Fifth Avenue white-tie-and-top-hat fashion opening recently. The fashion press, designers and executives, together with a group of famous guests, are shown around the buffet table immediately after the last creation was presented.

Most of the jewels worn with the clothes in New York's fall fashion openings were genuine, so dressing rooms were filled with private detectives as well as models and designers. The “behind the scenes” photograph, above, shows the business of checking off each precious piece of jewelry as it is put on the model.

The W.A. of Metropolitan United Church met in the schoolroom Friday evening. Mrs. F. H. Parsons, presiding, called to the attention of the meeting the concert to be given by Toll Brothers on November 14, “Flirting Through South America,” illustrated with slides in color. The arrangements are in the hands of a committee composed of one member from each group of the W.A. together with Mrs. Parsons. The society endorsed unanimously the resolution from the Local Council of Women that the sale of liquor be curtailed for the duration of the war. Mrs. Redman gave a report on the pound party at the Orphanage and brought thanks from that institution to the W.A. for their assistance. Mr. Frank Merrifield gave a display of sleight-of-hand. Miss Rae Miller gave two piano solos and Mrs. James Oakman, accompanied by Mrs. Carpenter, sang two solos. Rev. Dr. A. E. Whitehouse spoke a few words of appreciation and encouragement to the ladies in their work. He also spoke of the need of some form of entertainment for the men in uniform, away from their homes. Refreshments were served by the social conveners of the various groups under the supervision of Mrs. T. H. Adams.

'You're a Great People' Says King George as He Climbs Over Wreckage

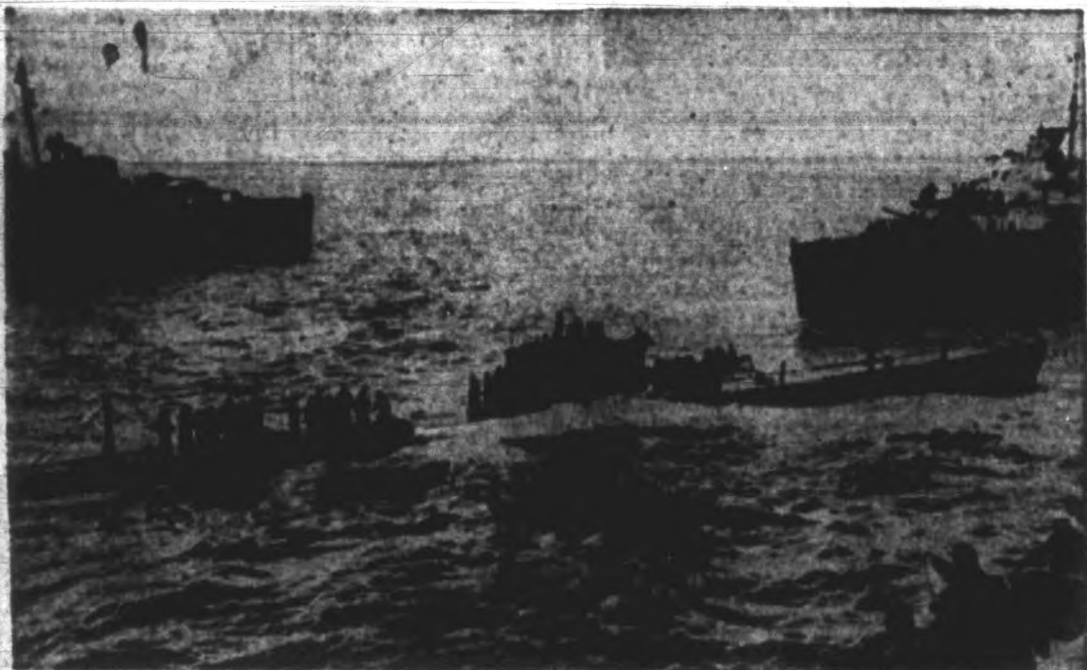

It isn't hard to see whose side was winning when the picture at left was taken. It's a view of hinch-hour crowds in the city area of London, and the story of the aerial battle overhead is written on their faces.

For all the sleep they miss and all the damage suffered, citizens of the British capital feel themselves repaid by a grandstand seat at the most thrilling contest in history, and the chance to cheer their champion in the breath-taking game of war. R.A.F. fighters give them plenty to cheer for, routing the Nazi bombers in every daylight raid. At right is another study in expressions, in one of the great crowds which greet the King and Queen when they tour bombed areas of the city. It was one of this throng who shouted to His Majesty as he clambered over a pile of wreckage: "You're a great King." His Majesty shouted back: "And you're a great people."

Italian Submarine Surrenders to British Warships in Mediterranean

Favorite joke of English Comedian Will Fyfe these days is the one about Italian submarines. "I poked my head over the side of a ship and shouted 'Waiter!'" he relates, "and six Italian submarines broke the surface." The scenes pictured here didn't happen quite so simply, but British naval units in the Mediterranean have found Mussolini's undersea fleet no problem. At left, British warships surround a submarine, disabled and blown to the surface by depth charges, while lifeboats begin rescuing the crew. At right, British seamen, shown in left foreground, watch the approach of ship's boats bearing the Italian crewmen. After the Italians were brought aboard, the submarine was sent to the bottom.

Massed Canadian Movement

"Like the royal visit all over again," said the people of Kitchener as they crowded streets, balconies and rooftops to watch miles of marching troops and motorized columns from Camp Borden swinging through in Canada's biggest mass manoeuvre. Men of five armored units passed through, 1st Canadian Cavalry, the Fort Garry Horse, the Three Rivers Regiment and Ontario Regiment, and the Canadian armored fighting vehicles.

Moving Day Came Early

October first, generally accepted as the date for scenes like this, had nothing to do with these persons' decision to move. The picture was taken September 21, in a north London suburb, after German bombs had damaged nearly every house along the street. Most of the residents are moving to the country.

SOCIETY GIRLS PICKET SOCIETY PARTY—"Aid to France is aid to Hitler." The sign on the placard explains why the friends of France, Inc., were picketed when they gave a party at the Monte Carlo, in New York city. The pickets were society girls, which is, in itself, something surprising.

CHURCHILL HEARS BISHOP VOICE CONFIDENCE—Back in Canada today after his visit to Great Britain, Air Marshal W. A. Bishop, V.C., Canada's premier ace of the World War, is telling of the wonderful spirit of determination and complete belief in coming victory displayed by all people in all parts of the United Kingdom. He came home by air, arriving at Quebec Saturday aboard the flying boat Clyde. On the grounds of No. 10 Downing Street he was talking with Prime Minister Churchill when this picture was taken.

CANADIAN ACES HONORED FOR DARING—Three members of the Canadian Squadron, R.A.F., were listed in honors, October 4. Pilot Officer William McKnight of Calgary, (left), was given a bar to his D.F.C. and is credited with bringing down six planes in 13 weeks. Pilot Officer N. K. Stanfield of Vancouver (centre), was awarded the D.F.C. as Acting Flight-Lieut. P. K. Turner of Toronto (right), was awarded the D.F.C. for blasting 10 German planes from the skies over Dunkirk and England.

KING HONORS LOCAL WOMAN'S RELATIVE—Air Marshal Sir Hugh Dowding, chief of the R.A.F. fighter command, which has played a foremost part in the defence of Britain from air attack, has been made a Knight Grand Cross of the Military Division of the Order of the Bath. Above he is shown on an inspection tour with the King. The Air Marshal is a brother-in-law of Mrs. Kenneth Dowding, who, with her three children, is living "for the duration" in the home of Lieut. E. F. Fox, R.C.N.V.R. and Mrs. Fox, 2708 Dufferin Avenue. Her husband—a younger brother of Sir Hugh—is also with the R.A.F. in England.

Improved Victor High Fidelity Records and "Double Entertainment" of RCA Victrolas Bring Record Music to an Even Greater Public Acceptance

There has been a popular supposition of late years that the radio has, to a great extent "killed" enjoyment of recorded music. That this is not the case is amply proved by the amazing increase in sales within the last few months. It is an actual fact that the radio, supposedly the very factor that caused loss of interest, has done much to bring recorded music back to its own. Radio has taught people to appreciate fine music and once their taste is set they learn to turn to "music they want when they want it."

Another indication, besides the increased demand for records, has been the inquiries and the sales of the new RCA Victrolas. These magnificent instruments offer a combination of the finest in radio entertainment and at the same time superb reproduction of Victor records.

The new RCA Victrolas, ranging from exquisite console grand models, down to the compact and efficient table models, provide a wide range from which to choose the very instrument best suited to your individual taste and purpose. Each RCA Victrola in its field is a finished piece of craftsmanship, of which any home might be proud.

GREATER EASE IN TUNING RCA VICTOR FEATURE....

Domestic and Foreign Reception by RCA Victor Finest in History of Radio—Many Advances Found in New Models

With Radio this year more vital than ever before; with every day providing vastly more thrilling radio broadcasts, not only from a new standpoint but from a standpoint of entertainment, too, one of the new RCA Victor Globe Trotter 1941 models should be a "must" in every home. No other radio offers so much radio entertainment; such a complete complement of the very latest advances in radio features or in beauty of design.

For instance, RCA Victor now offers what is undoubtedly the best short-wave reception you've ever heard. With the new Band Spread (Overseas) Dial on most of the models short wave tuning is actually as easy as local. Not only can you bring in foreign and domestic short wave stations easily and quickly but you can listen to them enjoyably. Another feature of most of the new RCA Victor Globe Trotters is a built-in Two-In-One Magic Loop Antenna which complies a fine domestic antenna and a specially-designed short wave antenna in one unit right inside the set. On a number of sets this antenna unit is retractable from a control dial so that it can be adjusted to give peak performance for either long or short-wave reception.

IMPROVED PUSH-BUTTON TUNING
Highly improved push-button tuning of your favorite stations is another grand advantage of the new models now on display. You simply push a button and your station flashes on, instantly, accurately, without any sort of noise or visible movement. You don't have to waste a moment between favorite programs... just push a button and there it is.

THESE WOMEN! By d'Alessio

"I can hardly wait to get home every night, to my smelly little apartment."

U.S. on March With Britain

The United States is on the march at the side of Canada and Britain. Lawrence Hunt, prominent New York lawyer, told radio listeners in this continent in a nationwide address over the network of the Canadian Broadcasting Corporation yesterday.

With a sincere appreciation of the need to "Stop Hitler Now," the republic has gone to work "to do something about it," he declared.

He doomed Hitler to defeat despite the insidious evil genius which had given him gains among his debauched people and those struck down by treachery.

In the United States, he said, the propaganda of the dictator was failing, the plain, ordinary people realized they had work to do, Hitler to beat, a war to win and a better world to make.

U.S. PREPARATIONS

"Let's face the big facts and the little facts will take care of themselves," he said. "The American Congress has authorized the expenditure of more than $10,000,000 for armament—and that's a mere starter. Ten days from now more than 16,000 men will register for training and service, as needed, in the armed forces of the United States—and that's the first 'peace-time' conscription in our whole history. The wheels of American industry are gathering speed. In 18 months from now we shall have produced 33,000 planes, fighters and bombers, for England's forces and our own. Don't those facts seem more impressive than some of our puffing politicians and morally emasculated intellectuals?"

"Several weeks ago Britain and America made a deal—destroyers for naval bases. It was far more than a deal. It was the most significant and far-reaching act of co-operation in Anglo-American history. No false pride, no face saving devices, no flag waving phrases—just a practical example of friendly, British-speaking neighbors working smoothly and effectively together. John Bull and Uncle Sam are pulling together as never before. And they are an unbeatable team.

"We are working with you night and day on military and naval problems relating to our common defence. No alliance, no secret understanding, and no groups for misunderstanding. Just another practical example of how we neighbors and partners in the English-speaking world are working together. It means the strengthening of no ties or loyalties. Quite the contrary. It means the strengthening as never before of those spiritual and material interests among the peoples of the British Commonwealth and the American Republic which will guarantee our freedom and mankind's salvation from tyranny."

Mr. Hunt emphasized the splendid part played by Canada in the war, not only in its active participation, but in bridging the superficial gap between the United States and Great Britain. He praised the solid virtues for which Britain fought and paid high tribute to Winston Churchill.

"Their magnificent leader, Winston Churchill, is the living symbol of the underlying unity of the English-speaking world, a unity which is the best hope for the future of mankind," he said, adding, "A heroic people and a heroic age need a heroic leader. Such is Churchill. When America has hit her stride, as you have done, when she has taken her rightful place on the battle line of freedom, then we Americans shall be entitled to take pride that Winston Churchill is the worthy product of an Anglo-American alliance, that he is our man as well as England's."

BOMBING RELIEF FUND GROWING

The staff at Moose headquarters, 1234 Government Street, announce that the response from the public in answer to the appeal of their order for the fund for relief of bombing victims is much better than even anticipated. In addition to donations of money and the purchase of tickets for the big gala to be held at the Crystal Garden on Friday, November 8, many valuable prizes have been donated, including an 18-carat gold Moose ring and a handsome Indian sweater.

The Loyal Order of Moose will pay the organization expenses from their own funds, so that the proceeds may go toward helping the fund.

Woman Unhurt as Bomb Wrecked Bed

A graphic picture of the bombing of the Welsh coast is contained in a letter received by R. C. Pembroke, 1033 St. Patrick Street, from his sister.

"Last Thursday we had a terrible time," the letter stated. "They were over the town all night and about 2 in the morning we heard some whistling bombs and then the thud; it was awful. Seventeen bombs were dropped altogether. Our shop windows were smashed, as was nearly every other window in the square. One house struck had 13 people in it. A woman was sleeping in the bed, but was not hurt."

Injured Soldier Reported Better

Condition of Pte. W. D. McMillan, District Depot, who received a fractured skull when an army motorcycle and side car in which he was riding struck a light standard on Dallas Road last Thursday, was reported a little better by Jubilee Hospital authorities today.

McMillan regains consciousness at times, but slips back into a state of semi-consciousness. The driver of the motorcycle, D. W. McMahon, Signal Hill, was only shaken and bruised by the accident.

Military doctors are attending the injured man.

SALT SPRING

GANGES—The Ganges Chapter I.O.D.E. held their regular meeting at Ganges Inn, the first vice-regent presiding. The secretary, Mrs. V. C. Best, read an account of the presentation of the "Bollinger-Bombardier," the $100,000 which had been raised by I.O.D.E. chapters all over Canada, as had also the gift of $50,000 to Lord Beaverbrook, whose letter of thanks and appreciation was also read. The treasurer reported the sum of $96,211 in the general fund and $99.08 in the war work fund, and also reported that $52 had been realized by the recent successful bridge drive.

Mrs. Cecil Springford was elected regent in place of Mrs. A. R. Layard, recently resigned.

The Ladies' Aid of the United Church at Ganges met at the home of Mrs. F. Sharp, Rainbow Beach, Mrs. J. D. Reid presiding.

Plans were made for the annual sale of work and tea, which will be held at Ganges Inn October 24.

Points on Potatoes

When purchasing potatoes, avoid those that are withered, sprouted, lathery or showing green discolorations or blights. Good quality potatoes are firm, shallow-eyed, thin-skinned and smooth. Large potatoes are best for baking, medium-size for ordinary use, and small, uniformly-shaped potatoes for salads and stews.

Sports Mirror

DETROIT, the nation's motor city, never, in all its history, has seen an assembly job as magical as that produced this year by Manager Del Baker of the Tigers, who waved his wand and came up with a pennant in the American League. After most experts, viewing the creaking Detroit machine in the spring, shook their heads and relegated the Tigers to the second division, Baker, pulling more surprises out of his bag of tricks than a Howard Thurston or a Herman the Great ever possessed, deftly manipulated his material until, as a climax, he produced a flag before the astonished eyes of the fans.

Baker saved one of his biggest surprises until September 27, when he amazed a Cleveland crowd of 45,553 by starting a rookie, Floyd Glebeil, just up from Buffalo and ineligible for the World's Series, in the first of what was to be three crucial games to decide the pennant race. Glebeil stunned the vast Cleveland throng by shutting out the Indians, while pitching against Bob Feller, outstanding ace of both majors, Glebeil's victory clinching the title for the Tigers, while the Yankees, another threat, were losing.

Few pennant-winners ever had faced the start of the race under such discouraging conditions as those confronting the Tigers last spring. Before the season opened, Detroit was stripped of practically all its reserves by a sweeping edict of Commissioner K. M. Landis that freed 91 players who had been on the Tigers' roster or under their control. This left few newcomers who could be called to reinforce a Detroit team that included a number of aging veterans in its cast.

Baker met the situation with a juggling act and sleight-of-hand moves that were really a series of gambles from start to finish. He took Hank Greenberg from first base and stationed him in left field. He put Rudy York, who had been tried in the outfield and behind the bat, at the initial sack. He experimented in right field with the aging Pete Fox, the streak-hitting Bruce Campbell, the veteran Earl Averill and the National League cast-off Tuck Stainback. He obtained Dick Bartell, who was considered as through with the Cubs the previous year, and installed the veteran with the wobbling legs as the Tigers' regular short-stop. He kept the slowing Pinky Higgins moving at third base and manipulated the ailing Charley Gehringer at second base with deft substitutions at the right time. He utilized Lynwood Rowe just often enough to make the Schoolboy's comeback a brilliant success. (Turn to Page 18, Col. 5)

Western Interprovincial Football Union standings:

	W.	L.	F.	A.	Pts.
Winnipeg	4	2	39	38	8
Calgary	3	2	33	32	6
Regina	1	4	20	63	2

CALGARY (CP)—With one accurate swing of his educated toe, Greg "Hard Rock" Kabat, veteran Winnipeg Blue Bomber backfielder, Saturday night defeated Calgary Bronks 3 to 1, pushed the Canadian champions into first place in the western football conference and dampened the enthusiasm of a crowd of 4,000 fans who up to the last minute of play were more than satisfied with a 1 to 0 margin that Larry Haynes' Bronks appeared to be carrying to the end of the game.

It was second down for Winnipeg outside the Calgary 25-yard strip and less than a minute to play when Kabat turned the entire complexion of the strenuously-played struggle. While his mates lined up in an impenetrable kick formation, the unexcitable Kabat carefully kicked from placement on the 35-yard line and the leather sailed through the uprights for the three points that meant Winnipeg victory.

Despite the fact that it meant an important triumph for the opposing team, the goal provided a thrilling climax to a game that thrilled the big crowd of Bronk supporters with just about everything except a profusion of scoring.

Prior to Kabat's winning kick, Bronks had taken a slim 1 to 0 lead in the third quarter when Billy Wusyk rouged Art Stevenson after Joe Turner had turned loose a surprise second-down kick from the Bronk 48-yard line. That was the only other score in a game that saw play sweep back and forth between the 25-yard strips with strong defensive work at crucial moments preventing major tallies.

TORONTO (CP)—Toronto Argonauts featured the opening of the eastern Canada senior football season Saturday by scoring a victory after regulation time was up.

Before 8,000 fans at Montreal, Argonauts edged out Montreal, a club still without a last name, by 9 to 8, with the winning point coming on a play awarded by officials after the regular 60-minute period because of a penalty to Montreal.

In the other Interprovincial Union game, Ottawa Rough Riders smashed Hamilton Tigers 21 to 1 and in the Ontario Rugby Football Union game, the 2-26 battery swamped Camp Borden 21 to 3 and Balm Beach beat Hamilton Alerts 20 to 0.

Three seconds before the end of regular time in the Argonaut-Montreal game, Red Storey was tackled high and Montreal was penalized 15 yards. Because of the penalty, Argos were granted one more play and Jim Fowlwell booted a deadline single from 40 yards out to break the deadlock.

The feature of the game was the passing of Bill Stukus, who threatened last week to quit for the season because of what he termed a "misunderstanding" with Coach Lou Hayman. Stukus, who played the entire game, tossed 18 passes and nine were perfect strikes. His most spectacular toss was a 50-yarder to Storey. That was the last play of regular time and the Montreal penalty came on the play.

CALGARY (CP)—Western Interprovincial Football Union, at a meeting here Saturday, decided to renew its affiliation with the Canadian Football Union. Plans were also made for the championship playoff, but details are being withheld until it is definite what two teams will qualify for this title series, which will be a best of three games, scheduled November 2, 9 and 16 if necessary.

Burrards Confident

Battle Saints Tonight

TORONTO (CP)—Vancouver Burrards, holding an impressive record of 22 wins in their last 23 starts, meet St. Catharines (Ont.) Athletics here tonight in the first game of the best-of-five series for the Canadian senior lacrosse championship.

Burrards' record was fashioned against such opposition as New Westminster Adanacs, 1939 champions, and provides some basis for the statement of Coach Les Dickinson of the British Columbia champions that he has a better team than Athletics.

When Burrards arrived here last night after eliminating Cornwall in two straight games, Dickinson intimated he would not be surprised if his team beats St. Catharines three straight as New Westminster did last year in the Dominion finals.

The Vancouver team is at top strength for the series that continues Wednesday and Friday. If fourth and fifth games are needed, they will be played Monday and Wednesday next week.

The Vancouver coach expressed pride that only two players on the club smoke and drink. "It's not that we ask that of them. It just happened to be that way."

Burrards, accustomed to a board surface, went through a short workout at Maple Leaf Gardens today to get the "feel" of the concrete floor.

The annual meeting of the Canadian Lacrosse Association will be held during the series and several British Columbia officials came east for the series. They are Jim McConchy, C.L.A. president; Jack Streight, C.L.A. secretary; and Archie Holland, president of the British Columbia Association.

Probable lineups tonight are: St. Catharines — Goal, Whitaker; defence, C. Madson, Barnard; rover, McMahon; centre, Cheevers; wings, Fitzgerald, Wilson; subs, Myers, F. Madson, Hope, Coles, Urquhart, Norlon, Eather, Coupland.

Vancouver — Goal, Walt Lee; defence, Berry, Dickinson; rover, McDonald; centre, Dale; wings, Johnny Cavallin, Morphitt; subs, Jenkinson, Gray, Roy Cavallin, Theal, Donny Matheson, Bradford, Fugaley, Matheson Lee.

Island Basketball Officials Named

Fred Bishop, Port Alberni, was elected president of the Vancouver Island Basketball Association yesterday at the annual meeting held in Nanaimo. Delegates from several island centres attended and made plans for the coming season.

Ernie Stock of Victoria was chosen vice-president and secretary-treasurer will be appointed by the president. E. W. Hamber,

Four Teams in Alberta Circuit

CALGARY (CP)—The Alberta Senior Hockey League will carry on during the 1940-41 season as a four-team circuit, made up of Calgary Stampede, Edmonton Flyers, Turner Valley Oilers and Lethbridge Maple Leafs. It was announced here during the week-end at a meeting of league officials.

Olds Elks voluntarily withdrew, while the league decided that it couldn't afford to provide the financial assistance asked by Drumheller Miners and Coleman Canadians. In officially announcing the league decision to the Drumheller and Coleman clubs, President F. J. Cameron of Okotoks said that the four remaining clubs regretted taking this action. # Grief-stricken Newsom Gives Tigers Great Win

16-Year-Old Wins Alberni Derby

PORT ALBERNI, B.C. (CP)—A 11-pound salmon won the annual derby here Sunday and a 14-foot rowboat for Tommy Turner, 16-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. A. T. Turner of Port Alberni.

Young Turner, competing against 39 other fishermen, including many experienced anglers, caught the winning fish at 6:30 in the morning, using a homemade bamboo fishing pole. Second place and an outboard motor prize went to T. Flanagan, who turned in a 34-pound fish. A fish weighing only half a pound less won third prize, a sawdust burner, for W. Yates.

Forty fishermen in all entered the derby. A gold button was presented to A. D. McGillivray of Alberni, for the heaviest fish caught in the derby's qualifying rounds. McGillivray caught a 50-pound salmon in the earlier rounds, but hooked nothing yesterday.

Two Competitions At Victoria Links

The Victoria Golf Club's second monthly par competition, 18 holes with three-quarters of handicap allowed, will be played next Sunday. Competitors will choose their opponents and arrange for their starting times. Post entries will be taken.

On Thanksgiving Day at the same links mixed forswomes will be played consisting of 18 holes medal play with half combined handicaps allowed. Players will choose their partners and opponents, also arrange own starting times. Post entries will be accepted.

Pitches 3-hit Ball to Blank Cincinnati 8-0

By CHARLES DUNKLEY
DETROIT (AP)—After mashing for nine innings his grief over the death of his father only three days ago, Louis (Buck) Newsom broke down upon reaching the Tigers' dressing-room as he thought over his magnificent conquest of Cincinnati Reds yesterday by 8 to 0.
"It was the hardest game I ever wanted to win," he said. "I pitched this game for my dad and I hope he knows what I accomplished. I knew in my heart he wanted me to win. This was the one I wanted to win most."
Billy Sullivan, who caught Newsom, wrapped his arm over Newsom's shoulder as they posed for pictures, then said "Go on, (Turn to Page 18, Col. 3)

Ex-Britishers Ask Citizenship

Two men born to British citizenship sought to reclaim the rights today as they applied for naturalization with 10 others before Judge H. H. Shandley in County Court Chambers.

Thomas Grant, born in Durham, England, became a United States citizen about 14 years ago when he moved to that country. Retired here, he wishes to become a Britisher again.

One German, one Swiss, one Swede, one Finn, two Danes, three Norwegians and one native of Turkey, all applied today.

Gold Producers Work at Capacity

Gold mills of British Columbia are working at peak capacity at present and chances of any large increase in production of the yellow metal to help the war effort rests with the discovery and development of new deposits, Hon. W. J. Asselstine, Minister of Mines, said today.

Mr. Asselstine has just completed a flying trip through the northern section of the province and the interior gold-producing districts to survey possibilities of increasing the output. He was accompanied on the first stage of his trip by Dr. Charles Cammell, Deputy Minister of Mines for the Dominion.

The minister said the gold operators have shown every willingness to co-operate in stepping up gold production. Big operators have increased their field staffs, seeking for new deposits.

All are working to full mill capacity. The only method of an immediate step-up would be to high grade present workings and this would defeat its object over a period of time and would not be sound practice, he said.

He said Vancouver Island may soon add a larger share to the yellow wealth with the Home-ward property at Zeballos and the Bear River section coming into production in a few months.

There are also possibilities of a better recovery from placer operations, particularly in the north, he said. Few of them are recovering fine gold. They need up-to-date machinery to get it.

Asserts Camacho Will Help Mexico

Under its new president, Manuel Avila Camacho, Mexico will experience better times, according to X. G. de Quevedo, head of the Bank of Refaccionario de Jalisco, and president of the Guadalajara Chamber of Commerce, who is at the Empress Hotel with his family today.

President Camacho is not as radical as former President Cardenas, and his policies are expected to help industrial expansion. The Mexican people are much more optimistic since the election, the visitor stated. Mexico, rich in resources, has been hard hit since 1910 by unsettled internal conditions.

"If we don't come back this time, we never can," he said. An old friend of H. Weldon of the Bank of Montreal, who for a number of years managed the bank's interests in Mexico City, Mr. de Quevedo had the pleasure of meeting him here today. They had lunch together and revived old memories.

As president of the Guadalajara Chamber of Commerce, Mr. de Quevedo is naturally interested in the expansion of the tourist business in Mexico, which rivals Canada in drawing tourist visitors from the United States.

Last winter Mexico enjoyed one of the biggest tourist seasons of its history.

The Chambers of Commerce of Mexico are working hard to bring about the early completion of the International Highway which will link up Canada with Mexico through the United States.

President Camacho, he said, is interested in the project and will doubtless lend government assistance in putting the highway through as quickly as possible.

"Within a couple of years at the outside, we expect to be linked with Canada by this great highway," said Mr. de Quevedo.

Mexicans are prevented from traveling at the present time by the adverse exchange, the banker said. Whereas two Mexican dollars formerly had the purchasing value of one American dollar, it now took five; a Mexican worth $500,000 now rated his fortune at $100,000.

"Our dollar now is not enough to get a shoe shine when we cross the border," he said.

Mr. de Quevedo, who is accompanied by his wife and their two daughters, Lorenza and Christina, is paying his first visit to Victoria and he thinks it is a beautiful city.

Hokanson Tour Starting Here

Randolph Hokanson, brilliant young Seattle pianist, who started on the road to musical fame in Victoria, has arrived here to give the first concert of his first tour.

"He is keeping the promise he made me two years ago in London," said Mrs. J. O. Cameron, whose interest in the blonde young man has largely been responsible for his success.

"I couldn't think of starting anywhere else—Victoria is my first love, for it was here that my first great opportunity came," young Hokanson said.

Mrs. Cameron says it was a hunch she had about Hokanson that interested her in him. She read about him in a Seattle paper, and for two years wanted to hear him play. Then she invited him here and he played in public. He was only 17 then.

Two years later Harold Samuel, the famous English exponent of Bach came to Victoria to adjudicate in a music festival. Mrs. Cameron brought Hokanson here to meet Mr. Samuel, who was delighted and took the young American to England with him for intensive study.

Unfortunately Mr. Samuel died suddenly not long afterwards, but Hokanson continued his study under Howard Ferguson, a Samuel pupil.

On his first tour Hokanson, now 25, will play in many large cities of the mid-west.

"Some day I hope to make my debut in New York's Town Hall—that is my ambition," he said. Meanwhile he is working hours daily at his Seattle home.

Victoria is eagerly anticipating his recital at the Empress Hotel Wednesday evening.

Taxpayers Move To Hold Property

Property owners whose taxes are in arrears have moved quickly during the last few days to protect their holdings from tax sale scheduled to open November 4, figures compiled by the city assessor-collector's department today disclosed.

Only properties on which 1938, 1939 and 1940 taxes have not been paid will go on the auction block.

A decided increase in arrears collections is taken as an indication by city officials of the efforts being made by those behind in their taxes to hold the equities.

Up to October 4 a total of $222,453 had been paid in the arrears division this year. The figure was $2,461 above the $219,992 collected at the same date last year although the amount outstanding in 1939 was considerably in excess of that at the beginning of this year.

At January 1 arrears totaled $447,314 and were subdivided into $255,389 one-year-olds and $191,925 representing taxes unpaid in 1938 and before.

SOLDIER'S DEATH WAS ACCIDENT

Recommending that drivers of army motorcycles receive more instruction before serving in that position, a coroner's jury this morning returned a verdict of accidental death at an inquest by Coroner E. C. Hart at Hayward's Funeral Parlor on the death of Private Terence Rowley, 27, 11th, Saskatchewan, of the 2nd Battalion, Canadian Scottish Regiment. Rowley died Friday as a result of injuries received in an accident on the Island Highway near Craigflower Bridge a week ago today.

Private Rowley was injured when an army motorcycle, in which he was riding, collided with a car driven by John A. McKenzie of Albert Head. Pte. J. H. Wilson of Nanaimo, driver of the motorcycle, was uninjured.

Mr. McKenzie said he was proceeding toward Victoria at the time of the accident. He was rounding the curve near the junction of the highway and Admirals Road when the motorcycle appeared. When it was about two car-lengths in front of him it suddenly swerved to his side of the road, striking the car.

Private Wilson, driver of the motorcycle, stated that as he rounded the curve, it appeared that the McKenzie car was directly in his path. The only possible way that he could see to prevent from hitting the car was to swerve to the left. The car struck the right front of the sidecar, pinning the deceased in.

Both drivers said they were traveling at a speed not exceeding the 20-mile-an-hour speed limit at that particular point.

Other witnesses were Provincial Constable F. Clark, who attended at the scene of the accident, and C. Cameron, who was there when the accident occurred. Members of the jury were: R. Shanks, foreman; J. O'Neil, D. Oliphant, A. Johnston, J. Pearson and H. Kiesow.

Clarke said he enlisted in the R.A.F. as a wireless operator September 20, 1930. With another man from his unit he stowed away in a British ship bound for Canada. They landed at Montreal and hitchhiked to Swastika, Ont., where Clarke was arrested for stealing a pair of trousers.

"Convoy" held over at Plaza Theatre, is a magnificent film of wartime adventure on the sea, which shows how merchant ships are shepherded carefully across the Atlantic, of the submarine raiders waiting for just such prey, and of the cruisers and destroyers that keep guard over the cargo boats.

Starring in this masterpiece is Clive Brook, John Clements (his first great role since "Four Feathers") and Judy Campbell, lovely new screen star.

Produced by the Empire Universal Films, Limited, "Convoy" has scored a tumultuous success during its showings across Canada, and has had two and three record-breaking weeks in Montreal and Toronto.

It's delightfully different... refreshingly youthful, incurably romantic. The sensational new laugh hit, with its utterly and happily novel and daring situations, opens tomorrow at the Dominion Theatre, with Brian Aherne starred as a kindly old soul who not only voted to acquit Rita Hayworth of murder... but brought her home to his wife!

Supporting the co-stars are Glenn Ford, Irene Rich and George Coulouris.

"SINGAPORE" ON CADET SCREEN

Five new hit songs—count 'em—including such numbers as "Too Romantic," "The Moon and the Willow Tree" and "Kalgoon"—are heard, and at least 500 comedy gags are registered in the new Paramount picture, "Road to Singapore," which begins today at the Cadet Theatre, starring Bing Crosby, Dorothy Lamour and Bob Hope, supported by Charles Coburn, Judith Barrett, Anthony Quinn and Jerry Colonna.

The harum-scarum story finds Bing and Bob fleeing to the South Seas to avoid romance, and only to fall in love there with lovely Dorothy Lamour.

Peace Plan To End Strike

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—Federal conciliators today proposed a formula to settle the three-day strike of marine firemen, which operators of coastal freight vessels said would soon curtail movement of defence program materials.

E. H. Fitzpatrick and O. F. Hoskins, representatives of the federal conciliation service, called upon the disputants to accept the peace plan as their "patriotic duty" and urged its "full consideration."

Under it, the firemen would receive part of a demanded wage increase and return to work immediately, while all other issues would be submitted to arbitration.

TANKER TORPEDOED TWICE IN 14 HOURS

NEW YORK (AP)—The British motor tanker British General reported today she had been torpedoed for the second time in 14 hours at a position about 700 miles west of Ireland. She said she required immediate assistance.

Mackay Radio picked up two messages, the first yesterday afternoon reporting an attack which was made at 10.30 p.m. P.S.T., the second said she had been torpedoed again, this time at 12.24 p.m. P.S.T.

Her position had been changed slightly during the interim, indicating she was drifting in a westerly direction.

The 440-foot, 6,472-ton vessel has been trading between England and Venezuela. She is owned by British Tanker Co. Ltd.

Steamer Afire In St. Lawrence

THOMASTON, Me. (AP)—Mackay Radio intercepted a message here today reporting the British steamship Wearwood afire in the Gulf of St. Lawrence.

The message, from a Canadian station, said the Wearwood had a "fire in No. 1 hold."

The ship's position was given as 50 north latitude, 64.50 west longitude, which Mackay said would put her off Anticosti Island.

Mackay said the message contained no further details.

The number one hold would be the one nearest the freighter's bow.

A line of cargo vessels whose names end in "wood" operate regularly between British and Canadian eastern ports, usually carrying general cargo to Canada and grain on the return voyage.

Lloyd's Shipping Register lists a Wearwood built at Sunderland, England, in 1912. She is a vessel of 3,221 tons and is 335 feet long.

AN EAST COAST CANADIAN PORT (CP)—A fourth group of over-age destroyers traded by the United States for bases on British soil entered harbor Saturday almost simultaneously with the arrival of hundreds of British officers and tars who will man them.

With the arrival of ships and men apparently timed perfectly, the slender destroyers knifed into harbor just after the Royal Navy seamen came in aboard a big British liner, exactly as had been done when the first batch of destroyers arrived September 6.

The ships were expected to be taken over by the British Navy in a few days.

The destroyers will join similar craft already in service with the Royal Navy on the other side of the Atlantic. These were taken over here last month and sailed recently for Britain, where their refitting is being completed before they go on active service.

Another flotilla of six of the U.S. vessels have been taken over by the Royal Canadian Navy. Their acquisition gave Canada a total of 13 destroyers.

Among the officers who came to the new arrivals was Lieut.-Cmdr. Earl Beatty, son of the man who commanded the grand fleet from 1916 to 1919. It was believed he was to be placed in charge of one of the vessels.

They left at 4.30 by the Princess Marguerite, tired but happy, on the homeward trip.

He Maru Arrives
Before daybreak this morning, Japanese M.S. He Maru was lying in William Head bay awaiting quarantine inspection before proceeding to Vancouver. The quarantine doctors went aboard at 6 and shortly afterwards the vessel headed up the gulf.

The He Maru brought a total of 182 passengers from Japan, 29 from Vancouver and 153 from Seattle.

The ship's cargo for B.C. discharge amounted to 1,670 tons.

Elaine Returning To Nanaimo Run
After getting her anti-annual overhaul here, C.P.R. trans-gulf steamer Princess Elaine will replace Princess Victoria on the Vancouver-Nanaimo run tomorrow, taking the 6 p.m. sailing from Vancouver for Nanaimo on that date, it was stated today at the B.C. Coast Service offices.

Princess Mary, which also has been laid up for overhaul, will resume tomorrow, replacing Princess Norah in the Gulf Islands, Vancouver, Powell River service. Princess Norah will temporarily lay up here.

Naval Trawler Sunk
LONDON (CP)—The naval trawler Comet has been sunk by an enemy mine, the Admiralty announced today. The number of casualties was not given. The Comet was under command of Lieut. R. G. Smith.

PLANE BLEW SUB CLEAN OUT OF SEA
LONDON (CP)—A German submarine was blown out of the water and destroyed by bombs dropped from a Sunderland flying boat in the Atlantic a short time ago.

The plane, operating with the coastal command of the Royal Air Force, made three attacks on the submarine, believed to have torpedoed a merchant vessel some hours before it was destroyed.

The captain of the Sunderland, describing the sinking, said: "The weather was pretty thick, but my second pilot spotted the U-boat about 300 yards off our port side. We could just see part of its conning tower."

"It began to submerge at once and by the time we had reached the spot it had completely disappeared. As we passed over the swirl left by its submerging we let go with a salvo."

"I at once made a steep turn to come back—so steep that the crew were thrown all over the place."

"The bombs had apparently got just under the submarine before they went off. It was terrific. The whole surface of the sea seemed to shudder for yards around."

"And then suddenly a blow-up—woomph!"

"In the middle of all the foam the submarine was lying tilted over a little with its decks awash. It sank again before we got back, but we turned and dropped another salvo pump in the middle of the path of foam."

"Up came the U-boat once more, but this time it rocketed out of water at such an angle that we could see daylight between it and the sea. It seemed to stay poised for a moment, then slowly went down."

"I made a quick climbing turn, came back over the place and dropped a third salvo, just to make sure."

"If a coup de grace was needed that supplied it. Huge air bubbles came rushing up—one was a good 30 feet across—and then great masses of oil."

Wheat

WINNIPEG (CP)—Wheat dealers at Winnipeg Grain Exchange today reported the sale of a small amount of Canadian wheat at Vancouver for shipment to the United Kingdom but the business was not reflected in the wheat pit.

Prices closed 1/4 to 1/2 higher with the October future at 70 1/2 cents a bushel, December 71 1/2 and May 76 1/2.

Chicago was 1/2 cent higher just before the close and at noon Buenos Aires wheat was 1/2 cent higher.

In the cash wheat market, shipper were reported to have taken a small amount of No. 2 northern. Spreads were generally unchanged.

Southern houses were buying rye against sales at Chicago and also offered some support to flax. Mills and shippers bought oats and some outside support appeared in barley. The price range was narrow.

Comparative world wheat shipments with North American totals in brackets were as follows:

Last week 3,944,000 (2,698,000) bushels; previous week $3,461,000 (1,933,000); same week last year 7,341,000 (3,824,000).

Country marketings Saturday totaled 1,779,000 bushels compared with 3,303,000 bushels on the same day last year.

Cro-Magnon People Had Large Brains

Our knowledge of older people in Europe is based partly on bones which have been found deep in the earth. A skull or skeleton of a certain type may be given the name of the place at which it is found.

In 1907, a man's jawbone was found near Heidelberg, Germany. From study of the jaw, and the teeth in it, scientists were able to tell a number of things about the man who owned it, vast ages ago. It is called "the Heidelberg jaw," and there is much talk about "the Heidelberg man."

Cro-Magnon artist at work on picture of a hunter and a deer.

In other cases, the remains of early people have been much more complete. There are, for example, almost complete skeletons of people of the Cro-Magnon type.

Seventy-two years ago, men were building a road in southern France. The road led through a valley, and in that valley they found a cave which no one had known about.

A scientist came to the cave and in it found the skeleton of an old man. He also discovered a number of tools and weapons made from flint.

It was clear that the man belonged to a Stone Age tribe. People began to speak of him as "the old man of Cro-Magnon," because the cave was near the village of Cro-Magnon.

Later the remains of three other persons were found in the same cave, and scientists spoke of them as members of "the Cro-Magnon race."

There was no reason to speak of Cro-Magnon people as members of a special race. Their skulls were of different shape than those which had been dug up in other caves where Stone Age people lived.

Since then, other skeletons of the Cro-Magnon type have been located. The skulls are of larger size than those of other types of ancient men. The size of the Cro-Magnon brain was about the same as that of the modern white man.

Cro-Magnon men were tall, often standing more than six feet. Some of them were artists. They made images of bone and ivory, and on the walls of caves they painted pictures of many kinds.

HOROSCOPE

TUESDAY, OCTOBER 8

Benefic aspects rule the early hours today. The stars frown upon public officials who may suffer severe criticism, just or unjust.

This is not a fortunate rule for women who must change many customs and reorganize their social habits. The Canadian scale of living is to be less generous than it has been. Conservation of resources is enjoined by the seers who warn that expenditures for useless luxuries should be stopped. It is predicted that the sale of cosmetics will be greatly reduced within the year.

The death of a royal personage is prognosticated, but it will not affect international relations. While there are signs read as presaging an armistice before winter, the stars appear to promise amazing success for the British forces on land, at sea, and in the air. While the British Empire will shrink in size as estimated by extent of territory—it will expand in its ultimate power. Amazing events will prove that right is victorious in the end.

Persons whose birthdate it is have the augury of a year of success and advancement. There should be no changes in employment or places of residence.

Children born on this day will be staunch, reliable and serious. Many may have unusual talents. Judges and preachers belong to this sign.

Dorothy Dix's Letter Box

DEAR DOROTHY DIX—As there are millions of unmarried women who resent being tagged "old maids" and who are seeking some appellation that they regard as less indicative that they have been passed over by men, I offer this suggestion: Once when an unmarried friend of mine was having her fortune told, the medium informed her that she was a widow. Observing the dubious expression on my friend's face, she hastened to explain that while she might not be a widow either by death or divorce she could still be a "psychic widow" if she had had a real romance in which marriage was prevented by some untoward happening. Doubtless there are many "psychic widows" in the land who are misnamed "old maids," so why should we not get a law passed legalizing "Mrs." for all "psychic widows" more than 30 years of age? Old maids are as obsolete as horse cars. Conditions change mental attitudes.

Answer: If it would make any woman happier to write "Mrs." instead of "Miss" before her name, I am all for her having the legal right to do it and be a "psychic widow" or a "synthetic widow" or any other kind of a widow she chooses.

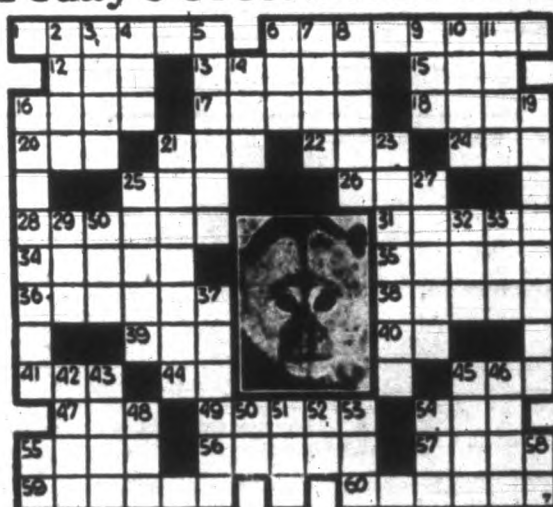

But what I can't understand, and what fills me with never-ending amazement is the attitude that otherwise intelligent women take on the old maid proposition. They seem to cling to the archaic idea that there is some sort of a disgrace in never having married; that it indicates that they lack charm and attractiveness, and that people look askance at them.

Nothing could be further from the truth than this. Nobody but the old maids themselves think it is any more of a reflection for a woman to be an old maid than it is for a man to be an old bachelor.

They consider that when a woman is an old maid she is one of her own volition because she was too much interested in her career to marry or because she liked her own freedom or because she never met any man who hit her fancy.
